Dignity & Privacy in Care

This half day course aims to discuss and understand what privacy, dignity and respect mean to the people we care for and support.
This course actively supports and promotes dignity within the care or support environment.

Course Objectives

- To discuss what “privacy” and “dignity” mean and to understand the importance of respecting privacy and dignity
- To understand how an individual’s dignity may be affected when supported with personal care
- To understand the importance of respect, confidentiality and professional behaviour
- To be aware of permission and discussion – not “assumption”
- To understand the person’s physical, social and psychological needs
- To recheck understanding and responsibilities for equality, diversity, inclusion and infection prevention & control
- To be aware of legislation: e.g. Human Rights Act, Health & Safety at Work Act.
- To look at ways we can actively promote dignity in care
